

TREND: State Legislators are Largely Rejecting State Preemption Bills that Prohibit Local Governments from Adopting Pit Bull Laws

14 Year Trend: January 2012 to December 31, 2025

In 2012, a new wave of state preemption bills barring cities and counties from enacting public safety breed restriction laws began being pushed by Utah-based fighting dog advocates,

Best Friends Animal Society, and dog breeder interest groups.

Since January 2012, state legislators have rejected 86% (59) of these preemption bills.

Over the last 5 years, Jan. 2021 to Dec. 2025, the rejection rate increased to 95%.

§Indicates two or more separate preemption bills were introduced during the session and each bill failed.

‡Indicates bill was also added to 6 separate omnibus bills that failed to pass the House Chamber.

†The Washington state law is a mandatory “exemption” law. Jurisdictions can enact and enforce breed-specific laws, as long as a city or county maintains a “reasonable process for exempting any dog from breed-based regulations or a breed ban if the dog passes the American Kennel Club Canine Good Citizen test” or its equivalent.
