I LOVE all types of toys and I can entertain myself with them, but I would love a forever companion to take me to training classes and on daily walks. M15-299336	25-Jun-2015	BEHAVIOR	6/25/15 DOG HAS GOTTEN KIND OF AGRESSIVE/POSSESSIVE, TRIES TO BITE WHEN D/O TRIES TO CORRECT. EXAMPLE IS WHEN DOG JUMPS ON COUCH, WHEN OWNER TRIED TO GET HIM DOWN, HE WOULD BITE TOWARDS HER. ALSO BIT (NO SKIN BREAK) HER 8YR OLD SON. ALSO DOG IS VERY HIGH ENERGY -PAP I also spoke to adopter and she stated the same as above to myself. In additon, she advised me that she didn't see a pattern

			or common factor in what he was being possessive over. It is anything she pretty much has in her hand. She also told me that his aggression is more severe with her 8 year old than her. She told me she tried to get him off of the couch with commands and different methods before physically getting him off. When those did not work she tried to pull him off the couch and before she touched him he bared his teeth and snapped at her.-552 I was also up front when adopter was returning dog. I heard her state that he growled and bared teeth towards her while he was on the couch. She also said that he was more aggressive towards her 8 year old child, and actually bit him, but no break in skin. 537
M15-299840	01-Jul-2015	INTERPARTY	I discussed the return notes with Brian Whipple and potentially doing a behavior foster and evaluation on this dog. It was agreed upon that [REDACTED] will take this dog next week (July 8th) into foster and assess his behavior surrounding location guarding and work closely with MA. MA
M15-300701	09-Jul-2015	BEHAVIOR	Rebel's foster and partner have not seen any guarding or possessive behavior though they have attempted to recreate it. They have pushed him quite a bit and report that he does seem to have some arrested development/puppy behavior. He can be mouthy at times but responds to correction well. He does have quite a bit of energy but that is typical for his age. I suggested puzzle toys and working for his food to increase ways to mentally stimulate him vs. physically trying to tire him out MA

M15-301084	13-Jul-2015	BEHAVIOR	Discussion with Brian Whipple regarding this dogs future. We are planning on him going to foster at the end of this week. During this week Brian wants the Volunteers to walk him while he is in stray. MA

M15-302323	22-Jul-2015	INTERPARTY	DO NOT RECOMMEND TO TAKE TO DOG PARKS I telephoned [REDACTED] (previous adopter) to find out first hand what were the circumstances surrounding the adoption return. She said that the dog was "not behaviorally" awful but "was not the right fit" for their family. He was "not a terrible dog." "The first four days were okay, then he was in the yard all day" and didn't get his energy out except for a walk. "He never growled." "When he snapped it was more of a behavioral snap than a 'I'm going to hurt you snap!'" "He just needs someone to work with him." "He had a dominant personality." "He was sweet and loving." "He needed to be with older kids." I read her the memo that was in our system that was transcribed from when she returned the dog to us. She said that memo did not accurately describe what had happened or what she had intended it to say. MA
M15-302911	28-Jul-2015	BEHAVIOR	From: [REDACTED] Sent: Thursday, July 23, 2015 9:07 AM To: Megan Alexander Subject: RE: Rebel (the dog you adopted) Hi Megan, Sure thing, here is a statement regarding Quip's (our name) stay

Memo #	Memo Date	Memo Type	Memo Details
			with us. -First, I want to state that in no way do I think Quip is a mean dog. He is very sweet and loving and most importantly, he is still a puppy. I think in the right home, with lots of training, and a very large yard he would be very successful. In our home, he took on a dominant role - dogs do this naturally and I don't think it's any fault of his. My son and I have had cats and so the dog energy was different for us. When I say it wasn't the right fit, I really mean that! I was looking for a submissive, low-energy dog. Quip's never going to be that dog, and that's okay. He did nip on multiple occasions and he was very stubborn but he never growled or bared his teeth. He deserves a loving home who will work with him and help him to move beyond his possessive and dominant tendencies. I hope he finds his forever home.- Hope that works!
